

New to teaching Core Maths Programme Organised by East Midlands West Maths Hub

13th December 2021

Overview

Final opportunity to join this new programme for 2021/2022.

These extended professional development programmes are run in partnership by Maths Hubs and the AMSP.

Primary focus: Core Maths pedagogy

The purpose of this programme is to support teachers, who are new to teaching Core Maths, in developing specialist knowledge for teaching Core Maths and to increase their confidence in teaching the course.

The programme has a primary focus on Core Maths subject knowledge and pedagogy and will be based on these six key themes which are common to all the Core Maths specifications:

- Using contextualised problem-solving
- Applying Fermi estimation and modelling
- Developing critical analysis
- Making sense of finance
- Using the pre-release materials
- Exploring statistics.

Technology and online teaching will be underlying themes throughout the programme.

Aims

- Participants will apply related pedagogical approaches in their Core Maths teaching and plan sequences of lessons to promote student understanding, confidence and progression
- Understand the philosophy of Core Maths, with its approach to maths through contextualised problem-solving
- Develop their subject knowledge in these six areas: Contextualised problem solving; Fermi estimation and modelling; Critical analysis; Finance; Pre-release materials; Statistics
- Develop their understanding of how online learning and technology can be used to support Core Maths teaching

Who will benefit from attending?

This programme is for teachers who are new to teaching Core Maths for the first time and are teaching a Core Maths class during the Autumn and Spring terms of 2021 and 2022.
